

Rebecca Self

Generates new ways of thinking and doing

Overview

Rebecca is an award-winning trainer, coach, author and professor with over 20 years of experience in digital learning. Her mission is to support global organisations and leaders in building cultures where people thrive. She specialises in navigating complex social, technological, geopolitical, and environmental trends with ease. In addition to her academic and corporate work, Rebecca is deeply committed to supporting women entrepreneurs, regularly delivering keynotes to women's leadership forums and supporting numerous organisations worldwide.

Prior to coaching, Rebecca was a writer and TV producer, university professor and Director of Content Development at the Gronstedt Group. Rebecca also co-designed and delivered Thunderbird School of Global Management's largest leadership development program in the Middle East.

Location

Switzerland

Languages

English

Specialties

Entrepreneurship, mentoring, keynote speaking, large group facilitation, transformational leadership and custom program development.

Clients

Rebecca's diverse client portfolio includes industries such as automotive, financial services, insurance, pharmaceuticals, shipping & logistics, technology and telecoms.

Training & Qualifications

- Certified Dare to Lead™ Facilitator
- Certified Cultural Orientation Approach Practitioner
- University of Cambridge Business Sustainability Management (CISL, Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership, UK)
- Doctor of Philosophy, Culture & Communication (University of Colorado Boulder, USA)
- Master of Arts, Mass Communication (University of Colorado Boulder, USA)
- BA, Political Economy (Hampshire College, USA)