

Robert Kahn

Master in the art of positive influence

Overview

Robert is a communication and leadership coach and consultant working in leadership, presentation skills, and impact through emotional intelligence. Robert's roles have included management consultant, corporate and executive communication, investor relations, media relations and marketing.

Consistently adding value to the process, he coaches senior executives to maximize and create executive presence through the art of positive influence, including how to talk to and deal with customers, employees and other stakeholders. Robert specializes in presentation skills and media training, enabling businesses and individuals to get more of what they want with less hassle, more buy-in and the desired outcomes. With his multilingual talents, he tailors his training personally to suit the culture of the business.

Location

Switzerland

Languages

English (native)
French
German
Spanish

Specialties

Executive coaching, leadership, presentation skills, media training, impact through emotional intelligence, corporate and executive communication, investor relations, media relations, marketing.

Clients

Robert works across a variety of industries and international non-governmental organisation, including beauty, engineering, financial services, food & drink, pharmaceuticals and technology.

Training & Qualifications

- Master of International Management (Thunderbird School of Global Management, USA)
- BA in Economics & Business (Macalester College, St. Paul, USA)