

Susan Hinz

An analytical thinker who brings dedication, humour and courage

Overview

Susan is passionate trainer and career coach with over ten years of experience inspiring people to live to their full potential. She has a keen eye for helping people to identify skills and experience, and package themselves in a way that will help them stand out from the crowd. As a CBT-coach she challenges her clients and leads with dedication, humour and courage. Her goal is to help individuals and organisations to clarify their goals so that they can live a meaningful life.

Susan started her professional career as a nurse in psychiatry. Her creative side took over and she transitioned to the world of advertising and marketing where she spent 9 years as a consultant, before moving into people development.
