

Richard Stokes

Empowering Leaders to Drive Transformational Change

Overview

Richard supports business leaders to positively influence & impact their world. He has a proven track record working globally with large corporations, ambitious start-ups and motivated individuals. Richard draws from his 20+ years of board-level business experience in the media and advertising industry to help clients to clarify and achieve their goals. His style is practical, positive and results oriented. Richard believes we can create the change we want and leads with the mantra "Start Fast, Go Deep, End Strong".

Early in his career, Richard worked in planning and account management. After a decade in the media industry, he took the role as Head of New Business and Marketing for Zenith Media. He then went on to serve as the Global Chief Development Officer for Maxus, leading teams in over 50 markets.

Location

UK

Languages

English

Specialties

Leadership transition, team dynamics, individual and team coaching, leadership development, career design, workshop development and facilitation and coaching through change.

Clients

Richard serves a wide range of clients from industries including advertising, communications, education, marketing, technology and telecoms.

Training & Qualifications

- Certified Executive Coach (The Coach House)
- BA Politics (University of Leeds, UK)